Comments Share This page is about the song Howard performs for Bernadette in The Vengeance Formulation (S03E09). For the song Howard wrote, then performed with his friends for Bernadette in The Romance Resonance (S07E06), please see If I Didn't Have You. Howard sings this song, with his own lyrics, to apologize to Bernadette in the episode The Vengeance Formulation, after making a fool of himself by proposing. This song was originally recorded by the Four Tops entitled Bernadette (Four Tops song) Bernadette. The original song Bernadette was a 1967 hit recorded by the Four Tops for the Motown label. Written and produced by Motown's main production team, Holland-Dozier-Holland, the song is one of the best-known Motown songs of the 1960s. Depicting a man's excessive desire and jealousy at the thought of his girlfriend, the song reached #4 on the Billboard Hot 100, and was the last hit of the Four Tops in the Top 10 of the 1960s. Bernadette was known for its false ending, when the chorus holds a long cadence note, then Levi Stubbs shouts the title and continues his precarious passions as the song ends in a fade. Bernadette video lyrics! I'm sorry I tried to propose to you! Bernadette! You thought it was creepy, but that's the kind of thing I do! Waah I now know that it was too early to talk about love. It was just a crazy idea that came to me in my bathtub. But Bernadette, give me one last chance, (falsetto) sweet Bernadette! I'm going to get the hang of this thing they call romance, (falsetto) sweet Bernadette! I dream of kissing your lips again, (falsetto) sweet Bernadette! Honestly to you, Howard Wolowitz! Bernadette, tell the world you belong to me! Tell the world, you belong (falsetto) to me! (spoken) Thank you Cheesecake Factory! October 25, 2013 9:56am PT by Lesley Goldberg The actress, who will return to reprise her role as Lucy, wrote the song with her partner Garfunkel and Oates, Riki Lindhome. CBS fans The Big Bang Theory spotted Kate Micucci's other talents Thursday when the recurring guest star wrote Howard's heartfelt song for Bernadette. During Thursday's episode The Romance Resonance, Micucci - who plays Raj Lucy's ex-girlfriend - and his Garfunkel and Oates writing partner Riki Lindhome wrote If I Didn't Have You (Bernadette's Song) for comedy. The song, which featured cheesy references to Joss Whedon, Doctor Who, Steve Jobs and a verse in Klingon, was created as a romantic gesture by Howard to celebrate the anniversary of their first date. It starred star Simon Helberg playing the ode to his wife, Bernadette (Melissa Rauch), reinforcements from the rest of the cast in a whimsical chorus that mocked the old mother's boy. PHOTOS: 'The Big Bang Theory's' Nerdiest Guest Stars For his part, Micucci has been writing and performing quirky songs with Lindhome for some time. (Fun fact: Lindhome also guest-starred guest-starred Big Bang Theory in the Past as a Sheldon-obsessed Caltech student.) Together they have recorded four albums and also have an IFC series based on their funny and eccentric folk comic duo in the works for next year. The Hollywood Reporter caught up with Micucci to get the backstory on the memorable performance. (Watch the full video, below.) When did the producers first come up with this idea? About a month and a half ago. [showrunner] Steve Molaro called us. It seemed that our musical/comic sensibility was aligned with the show. Also, Riki and I are huge fans of the show and were both on it, so we were excited to write a song that was funny, but also had a lot of heart. What kind of instructions did the producers give you for the song? They suggested the idea that Wolowitz sings about what his life would be like without Bernadette. Were there any words/references that were must-haves? The must-have was the line, And he will probably still live with his mother. And for us, rhyming hopes with inseparable isotopes was quite exciting. How long did it take you to write? In total, about a week. PHOTOS: Behind the scenes: 'The Big Bang Theory' How much rehearsal time did you have with Simon and the cast? We were on set every day. It was so exciting to see Simon and the cast sing it. Simon is an incredible actor and musician, he never failed to bring us to tears. Was there anything that didn't make the cut? They had to change one of the lines for scientific accuracy. We were surprised that they only had to change one. Were you on set to watch the recording? How many catches were there? On the day of the live recording, there was only one take. Simon nailed it. The song is broadcast on iTunes with recipes going to MusiCares - why was it important to support this organization? It's a great organization that gives musicians a place to turn when needed. It's great that the song can help. Have you talked about doing more in the future? Not yet, but we'd love to! Watch the video, below, and press the comments with your thoughts on the song. Micucci will reprise her role as Lucy on November 14. The Big Bang Theory airs Thursdays at .m on CBS. In an interview,[1] Micucci confirmed that the only line she and Lindhome were asked to include was the one referring to the fact that Howard would probably still live with his mother. They both performed a version of the song for the Big Bang panel at San Diego Comic-Con 2014. Howard Lyrics If I didn't have you, life would be blue, I'd be Doctor Who without the Tardis, I'd be a candle without a wick, a Watson without Crick, I'd be one of my outfits without Dick-ie I'd be cheese without the mac, Jobs without the Wozniak. I'd solve exponential equations that use bases not found on your calculator, making it much harder to break. he'd probably still live with his mother. Howard Since I met you, you've changed my world. You've supported all my dreams and hopes. You're like uranium 235 and I'm uranium 238, almost inseparable isotopes. I could not have imagined how good my life would be, from the moment I met you, Bernadette. If I didn't have you, life would be dreary. I'd be string theory without any strings. I'd be a binary code without a single cathode-ray tube without an electron cannon. I'd be Firefly, Buffy and Avengers without Joss Whedon. I would speak much more Klingon: qalopmeH QaQ jajvam. [2] Friends and he would certainly still live with his mother.
